

The Project Plan of 2022 Fall ANSO-BIDI School for Innovation and Entrepreneurship, Sustainable Development and Leadership Enhancement

I. Background

The ANSO-BIDI Institute Network includes international organizations such as Alliance of International Science Organizations (ANSO) and multiple universities and institutions. The chair partners with Politecnico di Milano in Italy, which ensures European perspective, while collaboration with University of Toronto, Risk Lab, as a partner, ensures American perspective. The chair also partners with The National Science and Technology Development Agency (NSTDA) in Thailand, University of Donja Gorica (UDG) in Montenegro, the Commission on Science and Technology for Sustainable Development in the South (COMSATS) in Pakistan, National Academy of Sciences, Republic of Armenia (NASRA) in Armenia and Jahangirnagar University in Bangladesh. The strong collaboration with these institutions continuously contribute towards the project.

So far, four terms of ANSO-BIDI School on Sustainable Development and Leadership Enhancement have successfully been held in 2021-2022. This training project is promoted and supported by the Alliance of International Science Organizations (ANSO), relying on its institutional platform of multilateral cooperation, and the Overseas Science and Education Center of Chinese Academy of Sciences, which allows the members from related organizations in the Belt and Road (B&R) region to have more opportunities of participating in the B&R Initiative so as to improve their leadership capabilities related to organizational management, risk management, resource integration and deployment. Trainees can benefit by effectively participating in the development cooperation of B&R, seizing new opportunities to achieve sustainable development, and to contribute to the growth of global economic integration. With its strong faculty and comprehensive curriculum, the previous terms of this project attracted more than five hundred trainees from 15 countries around the world.

Based on the above, it is planned to carry out the new term of ANSO-BIDI School in 2022 fall semester. Furthermore, it is planned to establish a think tank network and form an open cooperation mechanism. Focused on important international issues, ANSO-BIDI Institute Network will carry out international scientific research cooperation, gather broad consensus and promote coordinated development from the global perspective. The achievements of think tanks will be published in the form of consulting reports.

II. Purpose

Through the exchanges and interactions among the trainees of ANSO-BIDI School, the interconnection of science and technology innovation in leading countries is expected to be promoted. Besides, it is designed to increase consensus on sustainable development within the B&R region, and to increase mutual understanding as well as form a long-term training and exchange mechanism. By sharing advanced concepts of sustainable development and leadership capacity and the international diversified exchanges and interactions during the training, the project hopes to promote the in-depth development of scientific and technological cooperation.

III. Training Form

The training project consists of about 10 modules which would last for 3 months. In this regard, one or two modules will be conducted in every two weeks.

The above content is the initial version, and adjustments will be made according to the organizations and countries enrolled in the training. In case of any adjustment, trainees will be informed.
